Terror In The Corn, Anderson Farms, Erie: Terror In The Corn is a 10-acre, mile-long attraction offering a terrifyingly immersive experience into a world of the unknown. You and your friends will wind your way through a massive corn field filled with your darkest fears... leading to the town of Raven's Gulch where you will make your way through its abandoned buildings and darkened streets to face the nightmares that greet you at every turn.

The Ritual Haunted House, Englewood: The Ritual begins inside a rickety shack, held up solely by the souls of the damned. You will be pushed through the murky swamp, carried on the tails of an equal sense of dread and wonder as you battle your way through the choking despair of a bloody cannibal's lair. If you make it out, be careful not to slip down the banks into the water where victims doomed to an eternity thrashing around the very swamps that stole their souls await to claim you as one of their own.

Buyer's Take Advantage

Home prices are starting to decline as they do every fall. Buyer's are taking advantage of the longer days on market by asking for concessions, rate buy downs and help with closing costs. Seller's with homes for sale that have been sitting for more than 30 days are happy to help Buyer's with their purchase in whatever way that creates a win - win scenario.
